

SafetyAccessSolutions

Man riding equipment

To comply with LOLER 98 any gantry crane / man-riding system must be thoroughly examined by trained and competent person at intervals no longer that every 6 months. This is the maximum permissible period between inspections and therefore must be reduced dependant on working practice – for example how often the equipment is used, by whom it is used, environmental conditions etc...

These Items must also be returned to the manufacturers for annual service and certification: for example the powered man-riding hoist, the fall arrest inertia reel / rescue winch and the manual hand chain hoist.